"Schooling During Covid"

On March 25, 2020, Greater Memphis Adventist Academy began distance-educating in response to the Tennessee governor's call for schools to close. The SCC Conference Education Superintendent, Johnny Holliday, foresaw this eventuality and led all school principals in preparing for the school closure, so that student education would not be interrupted. Since March 25, GMAA teachers have conducted classes through videoconferencing, teleconferencing and home visits. This is what "Schooling During Covid" looks like!

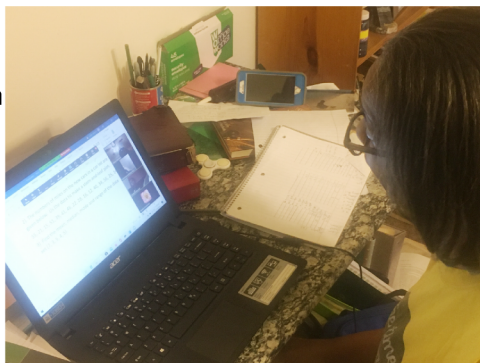

Nabriya works one on one with Ms. Q. on the computer.

Aidan meets with his class and Mrs. St. Bernard through the Zoom app.

Mrs. Williams teaches an Algebra lesson from her home office.

"Every Child Deserves This Kind of Education!"

WHAT PARENTS ARE SAYING

(Parents were surveyed about the distance-education experience.

These are some of the anonymous responses)

"This is a difficult time for both students, parents and teachers. I commend the teachers for going that extra mile to ensure that learning continues."

"GMAA is still one of the best investments I love!"

"I'm glad I can just pick up the phone and call if it's something I don't know or understand."

"I'm grateful for the teachers and staff at GMAA, they show how much they care and I couldn't ask for a better selection of people to teach and love my children. "

URGENT ANNOUNCEMENT

Recently, GMAA has been qualified by the TN State Department of Education to be a part of the new ESA/school voucher program for 2020-2021. Parents interested in transferring from a public school to GMAA and wish to possibly receive state financial assistance should register at:
